

Slides 2.3: All About Me One-Pager

Slide outline for Lesson 2.3, two days. Day 1 is slides 1 to 10 (draft and layout). Day 2 is slides 11 to 18 (finish, share, turn in). Slides 5 and 6 are the two teacher examples about fictional students; make them a 3 and a 4 on the rubric, not two 4s.

Day 1

Slide 1: All About Me One-Pager

- Lesson 2.3, Day 1: put it on one page
- Unit 2: Me, My Goals, My Money
- This is the Topic 2.1 check
- You need: your sort sheet, your strengths inventory, your interest quiz, your three notice cards Image: three worksheets fanned out next to one blank poster sheet.
Notes: Students pull the three sheets from the FACS folder while this is up. Pull your “needs more” pile from Lesson 2.2 and plan the two-minute conferences.

Slide 2: Do now

- Look at your three sheets from this week
- Write one thing on them you would want a new coach or a new boss to know about you
- One sentence, two minutes Notes: Cold call three. Then the hook: the next slide.

Slide 3: Meet Rosa

- Two minutes ago you knew nothing about her
- Read her page. 30 seconds
- Now you know five things
- That is what yours will do Image: a finished poster for a fictional student named Rosa: her name across the top, a one-sentence “known for” line under it, four boxes below.
Notes: This is the same poster as slide 5. Say nothing else; let them read.

Slide 4: The five parts

1. My top three values (Lesson 2.1)
2. My top three strengths, at least one from a notice card (Lesson 2.2, Day 1)
3. My two interest letters (Lesson 2.2, Day 2)
4. Two careers I want to explore (Lesson 2.2, Day 2)
5. What I want to be known for: one sentence that uses a value and a strength
Notes: Everything is already on their sheets except the sentence. The sentence is the work.

Slide 5: Example 1, Rosa (poster)

Image: Rosa's poster, readable: "ROSA" at the top; "I want to be known as someone who is honest and who can explain things so people get them"; values: honesty, family, learning; strengths: explaining, remembering details, keeps going (from a notice card); letters: S and I; careers: dietitian, teacher. Notes: Score this one out loud against the rubric on slide 7. It is a 4, 3, 4: complete, clear but the careers box is a little small, connected. Show the scoring; say why the middle is a 3.

Slide 6: Example 2, Theo (slide)

Image: a one-slide layout for a fictional student named Theo: name, "I want to be known as someone who builds things that work"; values: hard work, fun, independence; strengths: fixing things, focusing, makes people laugh; letters: R and A; careers: carpenter, video editor. Notes: A 3, 3, 3. The sentence uses a strength (builds) and a value (hard work is implied, not named). Ask the class: which value is in the sentence? If they cannot find one, that is why it is a 3 on Connected.

Slide 7: How I score it

- Complete: all five parts, from your own sheets, one strength from a notice card
- Clear: readable from three feet, one idea per box, name and sentence biggest
- Connected: the sentence uses a value and a strength; each career links to a letter or a strength
- 12 points. Meets on all three is 9
- Your partner scores you tomorrow too, but my score is the grade Notes: Page 3 of the handout has this table. Students read it while you score Rosa.

Slide 8: Poster or slide?

- Poster: 11 by 17 paper, pencil first, then marker, ruler for lines, pictures only if they mean something
- Slide: one slide, five boxes, big font, no animations, your name in the file name
- Choose now and write it on page 1
- No cart today? Everyone does a poster Notes: [Sal: say here whether the cart is available.]

Slide 9: The draft, page 1

- Copy from your three sheets into the five boxes
- Nothing blank. Lost a sheet? Fill from memory
- The sentence: I want to be known as someone who ___ because I ___
- It must have a value and a strength in it
- 12 minutes Notes: Circulate. Run the two-minute conferences. Check Box 2 for a notice-card strength. Watch for a sentence that is a goal ("made the NBA"); push it to "who you are, not what you get."

Slide 10: Layout and exit line

- The three-foot rule: if someone three feet away cannot read it, it is too much
- Name and sentence biggest. Then four boxes
- Sketch on page 2 in pencil, then start the real thing
- Exit line: the part of my one-pager that is hardest to write is ___ because ___ Notes: 13 minutes for layout and a start. Thumbs check on page 1 before they pack. Posters stay in the room; slides are saved.

Day 2

Slide 11: All About Me One-Pager

- Lesson 2.3, Day 2: finish it and say it
- Today: 17 minutes to finish, a two-minute share, fix one thing, turn in Notes: Posters and page 3 at every seat. Timer up.

Slide 12: Do now

- Write the sentence you want to be known for
- Already wrote it? Read it and make one word better
- Two volunteers read theirs Notes: One minute of writing, two of reading. Then straight to work.

Slide 13: What “done” looks like

- All five parts
- Readable from three feet
- Your name on it
- Nothing crossed out on the final
- 17 minutes. I come around with the rubric and give each of you one sentence Notes: The clipboard sentence is the formal check in progress. Every student hears one sentence before the share so nobody is surprised by the score.

Slide 14: The partner share

- New partner, from a different table
- Speaker: two minutes, page in front of your partner
- Say it in this order, about 20 seconds each: name and sentence; values and where one shows up; strengths and which one someone else noticed; two letters; two careers and why
- Listener: no interrupting. Then score on page 3 and write one thing they can fix in three minutes
- Switch Notes: Run the timer both ways. Grade 6 shares for one minute. Grade 8: the listener asks one question the speaker answers without looking.

Slide 15: Good feedback, weak feedback

- Weak: “Good job.” “I like it.”
- Good: “Your careers box is too small to read from my seat.”
- Good: “Your sentence has a strength in it but I cannot find the value.”
- Feedback names where and what Notes: Read one feedback line per pair before the switch.

Slide 16: Fix one thing

- Read your partner’s feedback
- Fix the one thing you can fix in three minutes
- Write what you fixed on page 3 Notes: Three minutes. Then collect.

Slide 17: Turn in

- Poster with page 3 attached, or slide shared with page 3 handed in
- I score the same three criteria. Your partner’s score is feedback, not the grade
- Page 1 stays in your FACS folder Notes: Say where posters go: home, or the wall. [Sal: ask before you tape any of them up.]

Slide 18: 3-2-1 and tomorrow

- 3 things you learned about yourself this week
- 2 things you learned about your partner
- 1 career you want to know more about
- Tomorrow: goals. That last line is the first one you will write Notes: Three students read one line aloud. Not scored. Keep the cards; the “1 career” line opens Lesson 2.4.
